Short Crops Certain. The agricultural prospects of the country for the year 1861 do not look promising. In consequence of the severe winter in the West, the wheat crop in the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan, and part of and, from the best information received, will yield but little more than half the usual number of bushels in those States, It was hoped that this deficiency in the crop of wheat would be made up by an rain will do can hardly be estimated. Very sown grains; but the weather at seeding and planting time was very cold, wet and unfavorable, which, with the great scarcity of farm labor, prevented the sowing and planting of anything near the usual number of acres. From our exchanges, and through private sources, we learn more than one-half the average breadth of out the day, and there is still a promise of land is planted to corn, and that the pro more. portion of onts, barley, and peas is about the same. Hence, were the season from May to October ever so favorable, there the amount of grain harvested in the year 1864. The prospect, however, is now much more unfavorable. In the north part of Michigan, a severe drouth has materially and permanently injured the crops. Wheat, oats, barley, and the grass crop cannot, in this large extent of productive lative pen runs off in this wise : western territory, recover, even under the most favorable auspices, so as to give more than half the average yield; besides, the dry weather is favorable to the growth and multiplication of the chinch bug, which have made their appearance in great what the drouth has left will be taken by these rapacious insects. Besides the very damaging drouth in the West and the injury by insects, considerable damage has been already sustained in New York and dry weather that has prevailed in the eastern and middle sections of the Union for the past three weeks. So that there is no disguising the fact that there is to be a short crop of all descriptions of grain a pleasant prospect; but it is time the country realized the precise state of the case, so as to be prepared for the high prices of next fall.—N. THE WAR IN VIRGINIA.

New York, June 30.—The Commercial states editorially on good authority, that our loss in Grant's campaign, exclusive of cavalry and Hunter's column, will not exceed 52,000, and since crossing the James river, will not exceed 7,500. Only 3,400 remained at headquarters on the 27th. As to the rebel losses, the Richmond Enquirer of the 29th, gives a list of 11,130 wounded sent from Lee's army, 3,040 sent from Beauregard's command. This did not include those sent from the Rapidan to Cordonsville, Charlottsville, Staunton and other points. According to their own accounts, they have lost since the siege of Petersburg, 28 general officers and 17,000 prisoners now in our hands.

The rebels were 3,000 strong, and had the town completely approach to the completely app pletely surrounded. Col. Walkins returned the somewhat profess but expressive reply: "Burn the town and be d—d."
In about twenty minutes thereafter the rebels made an advance from all directions. Col. Watkins' men were dismounted and occupied the Court house, and three or four houses adjacent, from which they poured a desiructivo fire into the fee. For more than three hours the enemy slowly but surely advanced. At nearly nine they occupied three-fourths of the town, when Col. John T. Croxton, of the 4th Kentucky (sent out in that direction the day previously by General Steedman) arrived in the neighorhood, and, attracted by in." Gideon J. "went out."

LIVES SAVED BY CRINOLINE. - An Irish paper relates a remarkable incident that ecently occurred on the river Shannon. A little pleasure boat was capsized in the deep tideway, at an angle of the river, and three young ladies with their three friends of the masculive species, were at once imnersed. The males were submerged by however dropped, always stay upright, and borne erect by the natant crinoline, floated down the surface of the pellucid stream, objects of honor, regard and admiration. The singular utility of the crinoline, owing to the stiffning, or caout-chouc, was shown in the fact that it never split, collapsed or exploded for the hundred yards during which it carried the nymphs before the eyes of the admiring spread and unruffled like a stately bird's ers. Soon heavy musketry firing was hundreds; but, on the contrary, remained plumage, bearing the females into shoal water at last.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

FROM WASHINGTON.

New York, July 1 -The Heralds special from Washington says the friends of Mr. Chase say his resignation is the consumation of a purpose long entertained, and drive I only by accident, that he was determined to leave the Cabinet and had prepared his resignation at the time Frank Blair made his violent assault upon the Treasury Department and occasioned the appointment of an investigating committee, but he could not honorably retire while this investigation was pending. To-day since the committee had exonorated him from all shadow of censure, he availed himself of the first moment when it could be done with honor to himself to peremtorily resign. It is added as an adthat Mr. Chase did not seriously intend to dition that last evening the Secretary submitted to the Finance committee of the Senate and the Ways and Means Committee of the House a bill levying adfriends say that he resigned because the ditional taxes upon certain articles of luxury, such as whisky, tobacco, &c., accompanied by a statement that it was absolutely necessary to provide for $85,000,000 more revenue from this source to enable be increased; while others declare that the Government to go on with safety, and that the coolness with which his proposistrengthened his determination to abandent was persuaded to nominate Gov. don the office, the administration of the most to impossibility by the follies of the Administration on the one hand, and the unwillingness of Congress on the other to the consideration of the nomination of provide the means to sustain the public

THE WAR IN VIRGINIA.

New York, July I -A correspondent of the Herald dated Headquarters June 29th, says last night Gen. Leslie occupied a knoll and threw up a field work for a siege battery. It was a position we have General Steedman, commanding the district been unable to hold heretofore by our skirmish line. In the morning the rebels discovered the had been done, and instantly opence on it from three different directions, and will undoubtedly do their atmost to take it to-day. The siege guns are 3 42-pounders and will be put in position to-night.

The Herald correspondent giving an account of the attack on Sheridan on the way to James River, says Gen. Gregg, in protecting the rear and flank, ascertained when near Slaw's church that a large force of infantry and cavalry was posted to intercept their progress. Finding Gregg was flanking them, they left their works and fiercely attacked his flank and rear. The attack did not confuse Gregg in the least, but he dismounted and gave battle greatly outnumbered. . Gregg contested the ground inch by inch until he got out so as to use his artillery, keeping the rebels in a position where they could not use theirs. The effect was as at short range. Grape and cannister were poured into their works, producing great mortality. His last position was admirably chosen near Hopewell church, where his batteries made most fearful havoc. The fee, dispirited and chopfallen, gave up the pursuit.

FROM SHERMAN'S DEPARTMENT.

The Herald's correspondent with Sherman, under dute of the 22d ult., says of the battle of Kenesaw Mountains of the 17th: Heavy skirmishing opened and toward night the rebels commenced firing fiercely. Bradley's and Bridge's batteries were brought to bear upon them with considerable effect, and Logan's and Blair's batteries also fiercely shelled the works. Hooker having repulsed them was pressing forward, while Schofield was charging around their left, capturing many prison-heard, and the rebels made repeated onslaughts upon the position our troops had taken from them, but were repulsed each time. Early in the morning Gen. Howard ordered forward his line and coming upon the enemy drove them pell mell out of their new position into one which was found to be of great strength, but by posting our troops in various positions and. bringing to bear a concentrated fire they were forced to fall back again, leaving a large number of prisoners in our hands. Their loss must have been heavy.

On the 19th the enemy were again found in works on the prominent ridge of the Kenesaw, and batteries were opened on them at short range. The troops were hustled up so close that the rebels made an effort to pierce our centre. The conflict was bloody, and at 8 o'clock at night, no material advantage was gained on either side. Early next morning fighting was renewed with increased fierceness and was going on at the close of the correspondent's letter.

ters. On the way out many persons accogthe roads were lined in many places with weather beaten veterans, auxious to eatch a glimpse of Old Abe. One cavalry private recognized him on the road. Mr. Lincoln shook him by the hand like an old familiar acquaintance, to the infinite admiration of the bystanders. Perhaps the notable feature of the ride was the passing of a brigade of negro troops. The troops were lounging by the roadside, but seemed to know by instinct who were approaching. They came rushing, and almost to the horses' feet, by hundreds, screaming, yelling, shouting, "Hurrah for the Liberator!" "Hurrah for the President!" and were perfectly wild with excitement and delight. It was a sponta-other Western wool growers: New York, June 20, 1864 Mr. J. H. Klippart, Columbus, Ohio: DEAR SIR: I enclose you an article published in the Economist of the 18th, by which you will see that there is reason to suppose that the wool clip this year is (or ought to be, according to price of cotton) it was last year. The tariff alone (on for eign wool) will be equal at the present price of gold to near 70 per cent. against 5 per cent. last year. Cotton having reached so very high a price, a is believed by all the best business men, that it will throw the demand largely on wool as a substitute. I feel a great interest in having the Western farmers obtain a full value for their wool clip. Whenever the farmer is doing well, business men do well. If I were in Ohio now I should advise the farmers not to be hasty in disposing of their wool. In all human probability the army will be increased and this of itself will produce a greatly increased demand for wool. I tis almost certain that the army will be kept in the field the next winter, and there will be probably a million of men to be furnished with wool clothing; in addition to the increased supply required for civilians wear, consequent upon the cutting off of importations by the increased tariff on woolen goods. The vool growers have a harvest before them, or my judgment is greatly at fault. Ninety cents a pound was offered and refused to-day for a lot of wool that would average about equal to the medium of Ohio wool. On Saturday I was shown a letter from a manufacturer to his agent in this city, directing him not to sell his woolen goods except at an advance, for the reason that he was expecting to pay a dollar a pound, "if not more," for his fall supply of wool. There is a very strong speculative feeling here in reference to wool, and the market is being rapidly cleared out of all desirable lots. each other, and are quietly buying every pound they can at market prices. Heretofore it has been the custom to make auction sales of wool, at low figures, in order to establish the price for the new clip, but this year they feared to try that experiment. Wool is to-day altogether the cheapest article of merchandise in the catalogue, and if the farmers part with it at less than $1.00 a pound, for the good clips. they will be unwise, and have occasion to regret it.

I will be much obliged to you if you will write me, stating your opinion as to be this year over last, P.S .- The manufacturous will make the farmers pay about double prices for all wo len goods the coming season, and it would be unjust, if they are inveigled into HOUSE & LOT For Sale, apply to ORSE FOR SALE—Apply to THE TARREST OF CAMPUREL 744%e00d3d W ANTED - A House - Keeper. The $390 Commutation Clause.

The House of Representatives, by a vote of 81 to 75, have abolished the 3300 commutation clause. The President is first authorized to call for volunteers, for which a bounty is to be paid of $200 for one year wring in three favorite jokes during the men, $300 for two year men, and $400 for meal, under the plea of illustrating the three year men. If the number of men topics discussed, and kept every one on a bounty is to be paid of $200 for one year called for in any particular district, do not signature of the President.

This ought to have been done long ago, but better late than never. Now every man subject to draft, will feel an interest in filling quotas that he never experienced before, because neither his own money nor that of his friends will keep him out of the racks, if he is drafted. The price of substitutes will no doubt advance considerably and there will be cases of extrome hardship, but the armies of Grant and Sherman sust he filled, let the sucrifice be what it may. When the law was first enacted, the copperhead press of the country declared that the $300 commutation clause was incorporated in the hill on purpose to screen the rich and force the poor man to enter the army. Now that it is repealed we shall have another gush of crocodile tears from the same quarter upon the same subject.

The Kentucky Copperheads.

John Morgan has hardly done Kensucky full justice yet. The red glare from the burning dwellings that he fired during his recent raid had not faded from the sky, nor had her Governor found time to thank the men of Ohio and Indiana for rushing to their rescue, ere the "Demperatic" State Convention meets to render John Morgan and those whom he represents, all the aid and comfort in their power. They see no treason in the efforts of Jeff. Davis and his crew to overturn the Government; but in the banishment of a Northern traitor like Vallandingham, in N. Y. Day Book and the sanding to Fort La Favette some blatent copperhead like Mahoney,-this is all the treason the Kentucky "conservatives" can see against the government they profess to love. And they boldly declare that "the Secretary Charles A. Dana, General Barcoercion of eleven or more states" is neither inard, "Little Tad." and his playmate possible nor "constitutional," "and if the people of the United States would have and restore their shattered constitution and manding was especially noticeable. It avert from themselves and their posterity was frank and zestful; and corried the conthe slavery of a military despotism and viction that the two eminent men were in public debt, the interest on which can never be met, they must bring this war to a speedy close." They wind up by declaring in favor of "an immediate armistice Lee and party were taken on. The party and a National Convention for the adjustment of our difficulties, as the only means of saving our nation from ruin."

It seems to us a military commander would be at a loss which to disperse first, John Morgan and his roving hand of thieving out-throats who openly steal horses and pillage houses, or that cowardly conclays of rebel conspirators who, lacking the courage of the bold raider but possessing all the venom of his treason, are doing a more important work for the enemies of the President signified his intention of imthe Government. It is just such State Conventions as met in Louisville on the 28th of June that nerve the arm of all rebeldem and inspires them with the hope of ultimate success. And if they ever do tive visit. succeed it will be because of such help.

Proposal to Gentlemen.

On the subject of Economy of Dress, Wilkes" Spirit of the Times" thus proposes: "We learn with gravification, that the contemplated reform in female dress, which meditates the rejection of costly foreign finery, in order that we may stop the exodus of gold, is a spontaneous and independent movement springing entirely from among the ladies. In that point of view, we heartily approve of it, and adorned by that noble purpose, we have no doubt that all loyal gontlemen will osteem the ladies ton times more beautiful, in their new domestic garments, than they ever looked before in their imported foreign gew gaws. This reform and its Hence I am induced to believe be is not sacrifices, however, should not be confined right in the inward man. Examine him. to the ladies. A rebel chaptain was heard to say, only recently, that if Grant and Shorman got to Heaven, it would be by a flank movement:-while The London Spectator speaking of girls, becomes equally demor-alized, and says: "Their minds are strategical; they like to turn the flunks of a difficulty, not to light it.

PROFITABLE AUTHORSHIP.-Mr. Dickens is said to receive the enormous sum of £12, the publication of the first number, and the remainder when the work is finished.

The President at the Fronts

On Tuesday 21st about one o'clock, long, gaunt, bony man, with a queer admixture of the comical and doleful in his countenance, undertook to reach the General's tent, by ecrambling through a hedge row and coming in the back way alone. He was stopped by one of the hostlers, and told to beep out of here." The individual in Stack replied that he thought General Grant would allow him inside, and strode ahead. "You'll danned soon find out," was yelled in reply. On reaching the guard, he was stopped with, "No sanitary folks allowed inside. After some parleying, the intruder was compelled to rive his name, and announcing himself to be Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, desiring an interview with Ceneral Grant. The gnard saluted and allowed him to pass. General Grant recognized him as he stepped under the large y" in front of his tent, rose and shook hands with him cordially, and then introduced him to such members of the staff as were present and unacquainted. It was ascertained that the President and just arrived on the City of Baltimore, and was accompanied by his son "Tad," Assistant Secretary of the Navy Fox, Mr. Chadwick, proprietor of Willard's Hotel, and a murino and. The conversation soon took a wide free-and-easy range until dinner was an-nonneed. The President was duly seated ate much as other mortals, maunged to the qui vive for others till the party rose.

volunteer, then a draft is made, and every ding to the front, so, at 4 o'clock, horses person drafted must either send a mun or were brought up, the President mounted He was very naturally desirous of rigo himself. It is thought the Senate will on General Grant's thoroughbred, Cincin concur in this, and that it will receive the Ratus, the General on Egypt, "Ind" on the Conerals black pony Jeff Davis, and, accompanied by a large proportion of the staff and escort, the party rode to the head-quartors of General Wright, commanding the 6th corps, where General Meade and staff met them. The location commands as good a view of Petersburg as can yet be obtained from our lines. Maps were brought out and examined, the position of the army explained, its future operations discussed, the steeples and spires of the city observed, as well as the dust and smoke would allow, national airs were played by the band, the enemy's works on the opposite side of the Appomatox inspected, and after a stay of an hour and a half, the party started on its return to headquar ters. On the way out many persons recognized the President's physiognomy, news soon spread, and on the return ride the roads were lined in many places with weather beaten veterans, anxious to earch a glimpse of Old Abe. One cavalry private recognized him on the road. Mr. Lincoln shook him by the hand like an old familiar acquaintance, to the infinite admiration of the bystanders. Perhaps the notable feature of the ride was the passing of a brigade of negro troops. The troops were lounging by the troops. roadside, but seemed to know by instinct who were approaching. They came rushing, and almost to the horses' feet, by hundreds, screaming, yelling, shouting, "Hurrah for the Liberator!" "Hurrah for the President!" and were perfectly wild with excitement and delight. It was a sponta neous outburst of genuine love and affection for the man they look upon as their "deliverer from bondage," and their wild huzzas were perfectly deafening. The President ancovered as he rode through their ranks, and bowed on every hand to his sable admirers. The cavalende arrived at headquarters about nine o'clock, took ten and chatted a short time, when the visitors steamboat.

At seven o'clock in the morning of June 22d, Major General Rutler and his stuff proceeded on beard the Baltimore and exchanged congratulations with the Chief Magistrate, who was accompanied by Mr. named Perry. Among the diffusion-inventions originated and perfactor by American ingenuity during the past twenty years, few are more surprising than the improvements in musical instruments, especially in reed instruments The entire party then went ashore, and known as "Reed Organs," Harmoniums and Melodomounting horses, made a grand tour of the ons. In the Grienge Priome, or November and, 2008, cognition added:

"The trade in woolen goods is now unusually brisk, and rarely if ever have we seen such a large and varied shock in market. It is noticeable also that the best qualities are of domestic manufacture, and quite a large assortment of Western goods are offered. Some of the local plain cashnores in market at present are manufactured—not in England now France—nor even in the Eastern States—but in Wiscomin and in several pertions of Pillnols, Indiana and Ohio. The goods sent to our market from the "Stone Mills," Janesville, (as oxibilited by their agents, Howen Bros, of this city,) deserves special mention because of their excellence in every particular, and because we consider it our duty as a lournalist to aid and fester home manufactures."

DARMERS, TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned are having made at Baloit, Wis.

TO RENT - A Good Convenient the increase of nearly double in price

Nothwithstanding the increase of nearly counse in price over other years of all materials put in Respors, we are going to self for 1864 at about the same prices as before. Our prices at the shop are £110 cash for single Reaper, for Resper and Mower $140. We are making Fifty Mowers, which will be warranted to do good work. They will be made of steel bars of the Buckeye pattern, FOR SALE OR RENT-A Nice Cottage House, nearly new and pleasantly lod. my23dtf ALEX, GRAHAM. FARMS FOR SALE-I offer for

They will be made of steel stated the intercey state except the hirges.

Those buying Reapers alone can have Mowers the next-year or thereafter for the same price, as the difference butween reaper and mower.

We do not deem it necessary to extel our Reaper, for it is already known to be the only two-lorse Reaper house. Notwithstanding a great many are used with two horses, they ought to use three or four, and some of them six, to he as easy to the horse as ours are to see ordinary, horses. Sale-five good califrated farms, one in Rock county and four in Dane. Said farms will be sold on reasonable terms. For further information apply to N. WILLIAMS, Agent, Scounting, Dane-Cos, Wis.
